

BRAND REFERENCE DOCUMENT

The Brand System.

Two surfaces. One system. Everything needed to build, post, pitch, and deliver under the Bixxville / Land of Geb brand — in one place.

SECTION 01 — COLOR

Dark Surface

The institutional voice. Used for all @Bixxville content, the Runtime, the proposal, the rate sheet, and proof-of-execution assets. Near-black background, portal green as the signal color.

SECTION 02 — TYPOGRAPHY

The Type System

POPPINS BOLD · DISPLAY / LABELS / NUMBERS / UI

We map the path.

OSWALD · POSTER MASTHEAD / INSTITUTIONAL DISPLAY

BIXXVILLE · TRADEWINDS

LORA · EDITORIAL HEADLINES / DICTIONARY / VISION

Lists lie. A graph tells the truth.

LORA ITALIC · TAGLINES / MOTTOS / CLOSING LINES

We trust the math and the quantum.

POPPINS REGULAR · BODY / SUPPORTING COPY

Before we name a number, we map the work. Every task has a size.
Every hour of attention has a value. The price is the output of that equation — not a guess, not a market rate we hoped would fit.

Type rules

Poppins carries the math and the labels. Lora carries the philosophy. Oswald is reserved for poster mastheads only — never body, never UI. IBM Plex and Fraunces are retired. Never mix Oswald into running copy. Size scale: display 42–72px · headline 24–34px · body 13–16px · label 9–12px.

SECTION 03 — THE CHARACTER

The Money-Face

Green etched line-art. Bandana · pixel shades · grill · ringed hand · watch.
Source: IMG_3735.PNG · cut to solid silhouette.

Placement

Carousel cover and close only. Never mid-carousel. Never on the proposal or rate sheet.

On the dark surface

Composite: drop shadow behind the figure
→ cream keyline knockout (masthead breaks around the silhouette) → solid character on top. The cutout must be a solid silhouette with no interior holes — or the masthead color bleeds through the face.

On the light surface

Drop the keyline. Place directly on the paper background. Scale to roughly 75% of the composition height. Used in the Lexicon Carousel and the bixx-ville poster.

What it carries

The character is not a mascot — it is a signal of culture. It appears where the system is being defined in its own language, never where a client is being sold to.

SECTION 04 — VOICE & TONE

How the Brand Speaks

DO

Math over hype. Show the equation, name the number, let the logic carry the weight. St. Croix is an asset — name it, own it, never apologize for it. One idea per surface. Restraint is the signature. Show, don't tell. Let the deliverable speak.

DON'T

No emojis. No exclamation points. No "we" unless referring to a real network. No IBM Plex or Fraunces — retired. Never explain the method in the discovery meeting — outcomes only. Never lead with the graph. Lead with the relief.

@BIXXVILLE

Institutional. Proof of execution. Dark surface. Posts about the system, the buildout, the math. Audience: anyone who might hire or refer. Tone: rigorous, calm, confident.

@ITSOWAV

Personal. Philosophical. Light surface. "Read the gap between two points." Posts: observe, never teach. Two reference points, find the truth between them. No hard sell. One quiet beat at the end pointing at Land of Geb.

MOTTO

We trust the math and the quantum.

DAG SIGNATURE

Lists lie. A graph tells the truth.

SECTION 05 — THE TWO SURFACES

One System · Two Faces

The same brand reads differently across its two surfaces. The system, the math, and the voice are constant — the ground and the emphasis shift.

@BIXXVILLE · DARK SURFACE

You're not behind because you're bad at this.

We map the fastest path to your goal — and run it with our team. One LOG is one hour. The price follows the work.

Scoped · Verified · Settled

POPPINS BOLD · PORTAL GREEN · NEAR-BLACK

@ITSOWAV · LIGHT SURFACE

Read the gap between two points.

The truth is never at either end. It lives in the relationship between them. Same lens, every material.

St. Croix to the world.

LORA ITALIC · MONEY GREEN · PAPER

When to use which

Dark —

Proposals · Rate sheet · Runtime · System deck · Decomposition pitch · Discovery deck · Buildout posts · All @Bixxville content · Client-facing assets

Light —

Capability leave-behind · Intake sheet · Lexicon carousel · bixx-ville poster · @ITSOWAV content · Math primer · Anything philosophical or educational

SECTION 06 — THE NUMBERS IN THE BRAND

The Math Is the Message

These numbers appear in brand assets. Use them exactly. They are not approximations.

THE UNIT 1 LOG = 1 hour = $100 at Operator rate 1 BSize = 4 LOGs	PRICING FORMULA LOGs × Rate ÷ 0.75 25% reserve baked in off the top Client sees one flat number
REPUTATION R = 0.50·Delivery + 0.25·Timeliness + 0.15·Streak - 0.10·Disputes	TIER RATES / LOG Apprentice · $39 Wrangler · $65 Architect · $85 Operator · $100

THE BELIEF BEHIND THE NUMBERS

Time is the real currency. Money is just how we translate it.
The number follows the work. Always.
